A screenshot of a web browser window showing the Basecamp 'Start a Basecamp project' dialog box. The dialog box is white with a thin gray border and is centered on a light beige background. The browser's address bar at the top shows 'Projects' and the URL '37signals LLC [US] https://basecamp.com/1894258'. The browser interface includes standard icons for back, forward, search, and other functions.

The dialog box contains the following fields:

- Name the project: A text input field with a red border.
- Add a description or extra details (optional): A text input field with a red border.
- Type emails to invite people — you can do this later, too.: A text input field containing three placeholder email entries (three small user icons) with a red border.
- Start the project: A button with a red border.
- Cancel: A link next to the 'Start the project' button.

To the right of the dialog box, there is a sidebar with the title 'Support' in a green box. The sidebar lists 'Example project names & descriptions:' followed by three examples:

- Website Redesign

A brief writeup of the long history of Basecamp

Posted by Basecamp 4 minutes ago

37signals was founded in 1999 as a web design firm. We helped other companies design and redesign their web sites. We kept things simple, clear, and as straightforward as possible. In a world littered with confusing design, we wanted to bring clarity whenever and wherever we could.

Business was great. As we started getting busier, we needed a better way to manage our client projects. We looked around at what was on the market, tried out a few options, and felt dissatisfied with what we saw.

None of the products that existed were solving the problems we had. They had lots of chart and graphs and stats, but that's not what we needed. We needed a way to communicate with our clients and keep everything project related together in one place. We needed a central communications repository that was easy to use and reliable.

So we decided to build our own project management and collaboration tool. It didn't have a name at first because it was just an internal tool. But as we started using it with our clients, they kept asking where they could buy it. They had projects too and they couldn't find good project management and collaboration software either.

The lightbulb went off. Maybe we could wrap this up as a product and sell it to other companies, just like ours. And that's exactly what we did. We called it Basecamp and it hit the market in February of 2004.

It was an instant success. In just about a year it was generating more revenue for us than our web design consulting business! So we stopped consulting and started focusing exclusively on Basecamp. And the rest is history.

It was an instant success. In just about a year it was generating more revenue for us than our web design consulting business! So we stopped consulting and started focusing exclusively on Basecamp. And the rest is history.

Today, Basecamp is the world's most popular cloud-based project management app. With millions of projects and millions of users sharing over 300,000,000 files, messages, and to-dos, Basecamp has become the go-to collaboration tool in dozens of industries for all sorts of businesses, organizations, and groups.

And with this all new version of Basecamp (the one you're using right now), Basecamp takes another leap ahead. The best just got better. The bar has been raised again.

Thanks for signing up for Basecamp. We sincerely hope you find it useful. We want Basecamp to be your company's go-to tool for every project.

Calendario

The screenshot shows the Basecamp calendar interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links for 'Projects', 'Calendar' (which is the active tab), 'Daily Progress', 'Everyone', and 'Me'. A search bar at the top right contains the placeholder 'Jump to a project, person, or search...'. On the left, a sidebar titled 'Support' includes sections for 'Calendars' (with a '+ Add a calendar' link), 'General' (selected, indicated by a checked checkbox), 'Projects' (with a 'Share your calendars' note), and 'Explore Basecamp!'. Below these are links for 'Subscribe to iCal' and 'July 1' through 'July 28'. The main area displays a 'Next 6 weeks' calendar grid. The days of the week are labeled 'Sun', 'Mon', 'Tue', 'Wed', 'Thu', 'Fri', and 'Sat'. The dates from July 1 to July 28 are listed sequentially. A yellow box highlights the date 'Today 18', which corresponds to July 18. Inside this box, there are two items: '2 To-dos' and two checkboxes: 'Click the "invite more people"...' and 'This to-do has a due...'. The entire interface has a clean, modern design with a light beige background.

Calendario

The screenshot shows the Basecamp calendar interface. On the left, there's a sidebar with a green 'Support' button, a 'Calendars' section (with 'General' selected), a 'Projects' section (with 'Explore Basecamp!' checked), and a 'Subscribe to iCal' section. A red callout points from the 'Share your calendars' link in the 'General' section to the 'Calendar' tab in the main header.

The main area displays a weekly calendar grid for 'Next 6 weeks'. A red box highlights a 'New event' dialog box for June 19, 2012. The dialog box has the following fields:

- New event (title field)
- any time (time dropdown)
- Add an optional note... (note input field)
- General (category dropdown)
- June 19, 2012 (date input field)
- Lasts multiple days (checkbox)
- Send other people an email now and a reminder at 7am the day of the event (checkbox)
- Add this event or Cancel (button options)

The calendar grid shows various dates from June 17 to July 28, with specific events like 'Today 18' and '2 To-dos' on June 18 highlighted in yellow.

The screenshot shows the 'People' section of the Basecamp web interface. At the top left, there's a green 'Support' button. The main navigation bar includes 'Basecamp' (with a green mountain icon), 'Projects', 'Calendar', 'Daily Progress', 'Everyone' (which is bolded), and 'Me'. A search bar at the top right says 'Jump to a project, person, or search...'. Below the navigation, there's a large 'Add People' button with a white circle containing a green plus sign, which is highlighted with a red box and has a black arrow pointing to it. To the right of this button is a circular profile picture of a person with a green and blue design, labeled 'Alejandro Manuel Bernardis'. Below the profile picture is a callout box with a torn paper effect containing the text 'Invite other people!'. The text inside the box reads: 'Basecamp is even more powerful when you invite others to the party. Quickly invite people to your projects with just an email address.' There are also several other circular placeholder icons for user profiles.
